Three-Week Vacation Coming

How many of us have yearned for another week of leisure each year? But most American workers probably aren't aware that a bill has been introduced in the U. S. House which would make three-week vacations the minimum requirement for workers under the federal wage-hour law.

No action was taken on the proposal this year, but it is alive for debate next year. The sponsor is Rep. Elmer Holland, Democrat of Pennsylvania. His proposal is a more restrained offshoot of the campaign for the four-day or 30-hour week, and doubletime pay for overtime.

All of these suggestions stem from a basic fear, which is that there will not be enough jobs to go around in the coming years, and therefore people must work less so that the jobs available will stretch further.

But a longer look at the motivating fear and its actual consequences is needed before the government intrudes further into the arrangement between employer and employee. Such matters are better left to the individual firms and their workers. A blanket law always catches up the marginal firm and the prosperous firm; the one which can manage to grant a three-week vacation, and the one which can't. — Columbus, (Ga.)

No Hum, It's Only Money Anyway

We are gratified to see that some New York bankers have finally gotten around to creating a special bank for people with too much money for the ordinary bank. We have had a vague sense that there was something lacking from the economy of this great and good nation and sure enough, the New Yorkers have found it — a bank with a French maid and a special night deposit vault for jewels.

Naturally, we wouldn't want to appear envious, but we cherish a smug notion that our own bank has certain features that the new outfit can't match. For example, no one at our bank ever asks intrusive questions about whether our net worth is in excess of $10 million, as the new outfit proposes to do.

What intrigues us most about the new plan is what bank officials are pleased to call "the European overdraft system." This is a plan whereunder bank officials automatically loan funds to members (members, that is correct) when their balance falls below the required minimum — $25,000 or $50,000.

This may have an element of convenience, but we think it demonstrates anew the celebrated American maxim that you don't have to be rich to be happy. For drama and sheer bone-chilling excitement, the new crowd will never match what we are pleased to call the American overdraft system. This is the scheme whereby we pay a batch of bills on Tuesday night, and then run like blazes to the bank to cover the checks on Wednesday morning. — Louisville (Ky.) Times

Manuel Hamm Hurt in Wreck

J. Manuel Hamm, 116 West Avenue C, was severely injured in an automobile accident in Kentucky last week-end but is recovering in Baptist Memorial Hospital at Memphis. Mrs. Hamm left for Memphis early today.

Mr. Hamm, who runs a fleet of contract haulers delivering new automobiles and trucks to Mid South dealers, sustained a broken back when the brakes failed on his big transport and it piled up in Kentucky. However, the Memphis hospital reported there was no nerve damage to his back, and he is recovering.

Laser Beams Disintegrate

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Laser beams may be the garbage disposer of the future says the merchandising manager of the appliance division of General Electric Co.

David C. McDermand said about the laser beam: "It won't grind, it won't melt, it won't burn. It will simply utterly and absolutely disintegrate any substance placed in its path."

Medicare to Start Friday Over Nation

By GEORGE NEWMAN

Associated Press Writer
The nation's hospitals are as ready as they can be for the start of the medicare program on Friday, officials say.

Federal, state and local officials concerned with medicare held news conferences throughout the nation Monday to discuss the state of readiness of the program to provide hospital care under Social Security for those 65 and older.

For the most part, they predicted a smooth start for medicare. But a few said they expected hospital facilities to be severely taxed by an influx of aged persons who have put off needed care.

Others admitted they weren't quite sure what to expect on Friday and declined to speculate whether there would be a rush to the hospitals by the elderly.

"Hospitals will be able to handle the situation in cooperation with patients," said Donald Dunn, executive director of the Minnesota Hospital Association.

Honey Asks VA Clinics in Counties

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Charles L. Honey says the Veterans Administration should establish a clinic in every county, rather than propose the closing of several of its hospitals in the nation.

Honey, a Prescott lawyer seeking the 4th District Congressional seat, attacked the administration's proposal in an address to the American Legion at Prescott.

"A country that will not defend its defender is soon without defense," Honey said.

Meanwhile, at Hamburg, Richard Arnold said he supports the "truth in packaging" bill to enable a housewife to choose her products on the basis of the product's quality and size.

Arnold, a Texarkana lawyer also seeking the 4th District position, said, "Everyone seems to have a powerful lobby in Washington except the ordinary consumer."

Arnold said such legislation would not be oppressive or burdensome to business since it would require only full disclosure of a package's contents.

David Pryor, another 4th District Democratic candidate, said he endorsed a federal income tax credit for college students and their parents.

He said something should be done to ease the financial strain because of rising costs in college education. He made the remarks in a statement issued from his Camden campaign headquarters.

Planes Keep Attacking Fuel Depots

By ROBERT TUCKMAN

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Buddhist extremist leader Thich Tri Quang defied an order today from South Viet Nam's supreme Buddhist patriarch to end his 21-day hunger strike.

Under arrest in a Saigon clinic, the antigovernment monk clung to his diet of sugary liquids, vowing to fast unto death unless Premier Nguyen Cao Ky's military regime resigned. He was reported growing increasingly weaker.

The second consecutive day of heavy U.S. air attacks on North Viet Nam's fuel depots dominated military activities. On the ground, more than 6,000 U.S. troops hunted in the coastal hills 240 miles northeast of Saigon for 1,800 North Vietnamese but encountered only sniper fire.

U.S. Air Force and Navy jets flew 84 multipass missions against the Communist North Monday, returning for the first time in a month to the strategic Yen Bay rail yards on the Red River, line to Red China 80 miles northwest of Hanoi. A spokesman said they destroyed a highway bridge, damaged a railroad bridge and wrecked two anti-aircraft sites.

A Navy A4 Skyhawk from the carrier Constellation became the 27th plane lost over North Viet Nam when it was hit near Thanh Hoa. The pilot was listed as missing.

Alford Scores Soliciting Workers

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Dale Alford lashed out at what he termed serious violations of political ethics Monday night and challenged "the machine candidate" to deny that state employees had been asked to contribute to his campaign fund.

Alford, one of seven Democratic candidates for governor, said he was informed that a prominent state official, "a well known tool of the power bloc, had written letters to state employees, soliciting their support for the machine puppet in complete violation of the Hatch Act."

The Little Rock eye surgeon mentioned no names in his 30-minute statewide television address nor in his 11-page prepared text.

Alford first mentioned the Hatch Act matter Sunday and said he could dwell on it in his television address.

Winston Chandler, who left the gubernatorial race and announced his support of Alford, told newsmen Sunday that the candidate Alford referred to was "the machine candidate," a label Chandler had pinned on Frank Holt.

At a point in the speech the camera focused on a newspaper headline that said: "Holt blocks erection of Alford signs in Chandler spots."

Boys School Escapees Re-captured

Serving their second term in the Arkansas Boys Industrial School, two youths escaped yesterday afternoon, hitchhiked to Camden where they took a station wagon.

They wrecked the stolen vehicle just outside Prescott and took to the woods. All night officers of Nevada County Sheriff's office and Prescott City Police with the help of State Police hunted the youths who were finally apprehended this morning early.

State Police Lt. Guy Downing listed the boys as James Bailey, 15, of Mountain Pine and George Pate, 14, of Blytheville. He said they were trying to go to Texas.

Over 200 at Angus Field Day in Hope

More than 200 persons attended the Arkansas field day recently held at Freeda's Angus Farm near Hope. Mrs. Freeda Roth Greenan welcomed the visitors to her farm and invited them to inspect the excellent facilities and cattle. Dr. J. D. Patterson, Searcy, president of the Arkansas Angus Association, served as master of ceremonies. Other officers present were James Yancey of Marvell, vice-president, and Henry E. Withers of Lavaca, secretary-treasurer.

Angus judging for both adults and juniors along with weight guessing occupied themorning. The five top ranking junior judges were Jim Burnett, Murfreesboro, Arkansas; Sid Robinson, Elysian Fields, Texas; Johnny Goodson, Nashville, Arkansas; Wayne Robinson, Elysian Fields, Texas; and Mike Stitts, Fort Smith, Arkansas.

Tied for first place in the senior division—Robert Stiner, Marvell, Arkansas; and Paul Minor, Magnolia, Arkansas; Elizabeth Steiner, Marvell, Arkansas, won the weight guessing contest.

Lloyd D. Miller, director of public relations, American Angus Association, St. Joseph, Missouri, discussed advertising and its use in herd promotion. The featured speaker was Dr. Raymond L. Burns, Kansas City.

Increasing importance of management and records in today's agricultural enterprises. His firm, Burns Agri-Management, manages farms in the Midwest.

Don Pollock, field representative of the American Angus Association, assisted Jake White, manager of Fourche River Ranch, Perryville, Arkansas, in a fitting and showing demonstration. Foot trimming and freeze branding also were demonstrated at the conclusion of the field day program.

Troops Start Moving Out of Dominican

By ROBERT BERRELLEZ

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic (AP)—Withdrawal of U.S. forces from the Dominican Republic began by air and sea at daybreak today.

The first battalion of the 320th Artillery, about 900 men, began boarding two ships at dawn, to return to Ft. Bragg, N.C., headquarters of the 82nd Airborne Division.

At the same time, other troops began boarding air transports at San Isidro airbase for the flight home.

The start of withdrawal was the initial phase in dismantling of the 8,000-man inter-American peace force that has occupied this country for the past 14 months. The Organization of American States voted last week to withdraw the entire six-nation contingent within 90 days.

Phillips Quits as Welfare Commissioner

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — State Welfare Commissioner Jim Phillips today submitted his resignation to Gov. Orval Faubus.

The resignation, effective Aug. 1, will follow a month's leave that begins after Phillips' last working day, Thursday.

The reason Phillips gave for resigning was that he needed to take some leave, which he has never taken during his 3½ years as commissioner.

Phillips told newsmen that today marks his 60th birthday. The political race has nothing to do with his action, Phillips said.

U.S. Breaks With Argentina After Coup Takes Over

Dodd Denies Charge, Probe Is Recessed

By JOHN CHADWICK
WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Ethics Committee has recessed after hearing Sen. Thomas J. Dodd testify he went to West Germany in 1964 on official Senate business — not in behalf of a lobbyist friend.

The committee's hearings into charges against Dodd of misconduct in office are expected to resume after July 15.

The white-haired Connecticut Democrat told the committee Monday he made the 1964 trip "for the sole purpose of looking into the Stashinsky case" — the case of Soviet agent imprisoned in West Germany for the killings of two Ukrainians.

But Dodd also said he was "perfectly willing" to help his friend Julius Klein just as he would anyone else he felt had been treated unfairly. Klein, a Chicago public relations man, is a registered agent for West German firms.

Dodd's testimony climaxed four days of public hearings about his relations with Klein — the first phase of the committee's investigation of misconduct charges against him by columnists Drew Pearson and Jack Anderson.

No date was set for a resumption of the hearings, when Klein is to testify. But chairman John C. Stennis, D-Miss., said it would not be before July 15, about the time Klein is expected to return from a trip to West Germany.

The purpose of Dodd's 1964 trip to Germany developed into the central issue as the testimony unfolded in the first case the Ethics Committee has heard since its creation.

Dodd testified that as vice chairman of the Senate Internal Security Subcommittee he made the six-day trip in April 1964 to gather more information about the case of Bogdan Stashinsky because of his long and deep interest in "the Soviet terror apparatus."

Still Raided and Man Is Arrested

Monday Leonard R. Patton, a white, male, age 56 Washington, Ark., was arrested at an illegal whiskey still in a woodland in Hempstead County three miles south of Washington.

Officers said the 50 gallon copper still pot was in operation with a wood fire under it. Whiskey was running from the double coil condensers. The officers seized and destroyed 15 gallons of moonshine whiskey in the distillery with 6 barrels of fermenting mash.

The investigators were from the Federal Alcohol Tax Bureau. The still was raided shortly before dark. Sheriff Jimmy Griffin and Herbert Griffin participated in the investigation.

DeGaulle Is Symbol of Discontent

By JAMES MARLOW
AP News Analyst
WASHINGTON (AP) — French President Charles de Gaulle symbolizes the discontent of many with the world as it is and their yearnings to its bleak condition. But it is doubtful he will find a solution. He is sensitive to Europe's mood of frustration with 21 years of the cold war, and he shares it. He is restless enough and has character enough to try to do something about it. In this spirit he has gone to Russia where he was gracious and the Russians received him warmly. But his trip so far has revealed nothing more than an attempt to conduct foreign policy by socializing. This is hardly new and his foreign minister, Maurice Couve de Murville, said before De Gaulle took off there would be no political settlements. His trip at most is a try at ventilating old antagonisms and attitudes and raising the shade on some new possibilities of good will and cooperation. None of these changes seems close. If in time they happen, provided they are not simply a restoration of the old-style free-wheeling and homicidal nations which brought on two world wars, De Gaulle will have made a contribution. But his contribution will be only as one of the many agents of change loose now. He can nudge change but he can't compel it because France, no longer a No. 1 power, can't compel it. In seeking to be the messenger of a new day in Europe, De Gaulle suffers from some handicaps which small of the past. His intense nationalism is obsessed with restoring the ancient grandeur and prestige of France. The result is confusion. Because of his nationalism he is under a compulsion to stand alone while he seeks a new harmony and cooperation. Thus in him nationalism butts heads with realism. Like France, he is listened to, but he is not dominant and in trying to be he may yet produce some shattering results, not constructive as he wishes but the other way around. He has done a little of it already. Irked by the restraints and requirements of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization — and by America's dominant role in it — De Gaulle all but pulled France out of it, badly damaging it. It can never be the same without France in its military structure. Yet, without NATO and its umbrella of American protection, France could not stand 10 minutes against a surging Russia if its present rather placid mood turned suddenly aggressive. Nevertheless, De Gaulle, while pledging loyalty to the West, wishes France free of NATO. This is to have it both ways: To try to be free and independent while being totally dependent.

ent on others for the ultimate protection. History may show he was a bit ahead of his time, that there were vision and value in his single-handed, even brutal, attempt as with NATO to make the West realize painfully that changing times needed new conditions. But as of now he gives the impression of a man trying to open a safe without being sure of the combination. Nationalists Against Any China Change By SPENCER MOOSA TAIPEI, Formosa (AP) — Nationalist China disagrees strongly with any American efforts to build bridges to Communist China. Editorials obviously reflecting the views of the political high command depict these efforts as appeasement. One paper denounced appeasement as a poisonous concept that would "produce serious setbacks in the Free World's Anti-Communist struggle." This is the background against which U.S. Secretary of State Dean Rusk will meet President Chiang Kai-shek. Rusk is due in Taipei Sunday for an overnight visit before going to Japan and South Korea. If the Chinese Nationalists had their way, the United States would provide moral and material support, but no combat units, for an attempted comeback by Chiang Kai-shek's forces. The China Daily News, published by the Kuomintang, Chiang's ruling party, has urged the United States to listen carefully to Chiang's views on how to win against communism in Asia. Chiang has expressed himself in favor of destruction of the nuclear installations the Communists have built on the mainland. The Cheng Hsin Daily News, which calls itself an independent paper, says no wishful thinking can change "the bellicose nature of the Chinese Communists and their threat to world peace." The United Daily News, largest in Formosa, says there is no way to secure peace and security in Asia except by crushing that regime. It dismisses as an illusion, reported American hopes that a policy of containment without isolation might lead to moderation by the Peking regime. The Shin Sheng Daily News, published by the Formosa provincial government, has urged the West to "consider wiping out the nuclear installations on the China mainland before the Chinese Communists develop nuclear weapons to attack the Free World." Earliest alarm clocks, invented in Germany in the late 16th century, were so heavy they had to be hung on a special belt.

GOP Backing Off Viet Nam Stand

By JACK BELL
WASHINGTON (AP) — Congressional Republican leaders appear to be backing away from their previous hard line of advocating a step-up in the war in Viet Nam. Their latest approach of accusing President Johnson of not telling the American public the whole truth about what is happening in Southeast Asia could reflect the mixed opinion campaigners of both parties have found among the voters. Several senators who have been out on the hustings recently have come back with the general opinion that their people are greatly disturbed about the war but don't want it broadened and don't want the United States to get out. Their findings do not seem to support the view attributed to Johnson that the hawks — those who want the war accelerated — are growing in number. In criticizing the President Monday for not telling all about Viet Nam, the Republican Policy Coordinating Committee failed to renew its proposal of last December for a "Kennedy-type" of quarantine against North Viet Nam's principal port of Haiphong. This would be designed to block the shipment of war materials, in the manner of President John F. Kennedy's quarantine of Cuba in the 1962 missile crisis. Nor did the committee go along with the recent advocacy by Gov. George Romney of Michigan for bombing of oil depots in the Haiphong area. Romney perhaps would become a contender for the 1968 GOP presidential nomination if he wins re-election in Michigan. Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen, who generally has supported Johnson's Viet Nam course, announced the coordinating group's finding that "it is time that the President and the administration tell the American people the whole truth" about Viet Nam. Dirksen said he had heard some things during a recent White House briefing of leaders of both parties that he thought could be told to the public. But he wouldn't tell what they were because he said he couldn't violate a pledge of secrecy. "We try to be circumspect," Dirksen said. "We don't demean the commander in chief and President of the United States before the whole world." As for the war, Dirksen said "we are all working for the same boss and for the same ostensible goal — to get this thing over with on an honorable basis." Lieutenant is derived from French words meaning "holding the place of."

The Blind Was Leading the Blind

DETROIT (AP) — Hesitancy at the end of the leash told Jack McAdams, 23, something was wrong.

It turned out, the blind was leading the blind.

McAdams' dog, Dell, was guiding him through downtown Detroit streets on a rainy April day when he sensed indecision on the dog's part.

A veterinarian discovered that Dell, a 7-year-old Doberman Pinscher, was as blind as her master and had been leading him "on instinct and guts alone."

Dell had cataracts, a malady common to both humans and dogs. The lenses of her eyes were so fogged she barely could distinguish light from darkness.

Fortunately dogs have a second set of lenses, though an operation to remove the defective set costs $350. And no one could promise McAdams what the results of the operation would be.

McAdams had trained Dell since she was a puppy. He felt he just couldn't let her down. A short-wave radio operator, McAdams told other hams about his and Dell's plight. The operation money rolled in and there was transportation to take Dell to a clinic.

Two weeks ago Dr. William Magrane of Mishawaka, Ind., removed Dell's clouded lenses. Thursday the stitches inside her eyelids were removed.

Dell had trouble shaking off effects of the anesthetic, because she is a canine diabetic. It was discovered three years ago the dog was a diabetic, but she takes her insulin quite obligingly.

"I shout, 'Here Dell, time for your shot,' and she comes trotting up," McAdams said. "My mother gives her the needle. We have never had any trouble."

But after the eye operation, "she lay there for hours, like she was dead," said Oneite Robinson, McAdams' mother and a nurse at Doctors Hospital, who made Dell her special patient through the dog's ordeal.

Mrs. Robinson says Dell is starting to look better. "Her coat is coming back and she is beginning to scamper around the house again."

McAdams knows Dell can see again, even without a veterinarian's assurance. He can feel a more confident tug on the leash.

Engagement Announced

Miss Sharon Key Greene

Mr. and Mrs. D. G. Greene of Hope announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Sharon Key, to Donald Leroy Meade, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ben E. Meade of Magnolia.

Miss Greene attended Southern State College and is presently a student at the University of Arkansas, where she is majoring in biology and chemistry and will be eligible for her BA degree in January.

Mr. Meade will be a senior in the school of Engineering, University of Arkansas, where he is a member of Theta Tau engineering fraternity and is president-elect of the U. of A. Chapter of the American Institute of Chemical Engineers.

The wedding will be an event of September 4, at 4:00 p.m. in the First Methodist Church.

Television and Radio

By CYNTHIA LOWRY AP TV-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Everybody knows the show business legend about the unknown understudy who finally got her big chance and was an overnight sensation.

Well, the overnight lightning failed to strike Lainie Kazan when her big chance came. She was the understudy to Barbra Streisand in "Funny Girl," a show that had made Miss Streisand an instant Broadway star. And Miss Streisand was very healthy.

Lainie's big chance finally came the one night Miss Streisand came down with a virus 40 minutes before curtain. One glorious night in "Funny Girl" didn't do it for Lainie, but her ambition and determination finally have.

She auditioned for jobs, including a spot on the Telephone Hour. She attracted some TV attention by getting booked on a local, late-evening variety show. "The word spread about her looks and voice and she started getting nightclub bookings, sang on the "Tonight Show" — all the while keeping her understudy job.

Now the career of Lainie Kazan, formerly of Brooklyn, has taken off. She's a regular on "The Dean Martin Summer Show." She has performed in the dozen pre-taped shows, and although in the first two broadcasts she has done little beyond sing attractively, she gets a chance in later shows to do some comedy and dancing.

George Burns, who was helping in stimulating Carol Channing's career, has chosen her as his partner for some club dates during the summer. And she has a July booking in New York's Persian Room, the Buckingham Palace of the nightclub circuit.

Lainie still is surprised that she is gaining recognition as a singer. She started out to be a speech therapist and entered Long Island's Hofstra College as a drama and speech major. Singing was a sideline.

Her father, she admits frankly, was a bookmaker, but when he died there was little money for the family. But the hardest time was not financial. It was being the understudy.

"It's an ego problem," she said. "You feel that you want to play it, that you have something to say. It was so frustrating — not appearing — that once I thought I had an ulcer, and when I didn't, I had my gall bladder taken out. But it was the job."

Strong Silent Machine

Dear Helen: Hey there, that was pretty cool, sassing a computer back in its own language. With computer cards.

Did the machine grind out an answer to your 30-card "letter"? — Doug

Dear Doug: Yup...the same darn bill I'd been getting for five months, with another "overdue credit charge" added! Machines will no doubt rule the world someday — they don't waste time on sassy women. — H.

Dear Helen: Several months ago I met one of the kindest and finest boys I've ever known. I grew to like him very much and so did my parents. But they stopped letting me see him when they learned he was making no attempt toward college. They realize everyone isn't college material, but tell me I must find a boy who is.

This fellow has a steady job but has the Service before him. I will be entering college this fall.

I haven't dated much since I had to break up with him. When I told him about how my parents felt, he understood. I am sure they're right for now, but what about later? I'll have to go by my own feelings some day. Why shouldn't I feel this way about a plain, hard-working guy who may not have material wealth, but has so much more than money?

I can't stop hoping I'll see him again some day. Is this wrong? — Cindy

Dear Cindy: Of course it isn't wrong. Nor are your parents wrong in wanting the best for their daughter. But sometimes parents don't know "best" (when they see him). — H.

Motor Scooters Dangerous?

Dear Helen: I am 18, a boy. I have over $500 in the bank, and since I don't plan to go further in school right away, and don't want a car, I thought a motor scooter would be nice.

I'll be working this summer, and can replace the $200 for a scooter cost in a month.

My father says it is all right with him, but my mother flew off the handle and said definitely NO. She thinks a motor scooter is too dangerous. I say it is no more dangerous than walking across a busy street. I could never take it on a super highway, but just back and forth to work and maybe swimming — and they don't go all that fast.

What are your views, Helen? — Hopeful.

Dear Hopeful: ...Very guarded. Let's just say that if you are as careful a driver as you indicate, I hope your father has the last word. — H.

Dear Helen: During last summer's vacation I met this girl at a boat club where I kept my boat. We swam, boated, fished and had a great time, but I never got her last name.

Here's the problem: a big chain of stores bought up the land, and now I won't see her any more. I can't find out where she lives because I was too dumb to write down her name and address. How can you find a girl when all you know about her is that her first name is "Lane"? — Searching

Dear S: Ask everyone who belonged to your boat club — surely someone in the group will lead you to "Lane." All it takes is sleuthing. You'll see. — H.

Ralston Has Chance at Wimbledon

By GEOFFREY MILLER
Associated Press Sports Writer
WIMBLEDON, England (AP)—

Wimbledon's tennis king is dead.

And Dennis Ralston, United States No. 1 tennis star, is right in there fighting for the vacated crown.

Roy Emerson, the wiry Australian who has won the Wimbledon title for two years running, was eliminated Monday by countryman Owen Davidson.

Emerson took a tumble during the opening set of his quarter-final against Davidson, and strained a ligament in his left shoulder. The partly crippled champion went out 6-3, 3-6, 4-6, 4-6.

Three players now have the chance to break the Australian domination of Wimbledon — Ralston, Spain's Manuel Santana and South Africa's Cliff Drysdale.

Ralston plays Drysdale or Tony Roche, another Australian, in the semifinals. Santana has to play Ken Fletcher of Australia in the quarter-finals, and the winner will take on Davidson in the other semifinal.

Ralston played his best tennis of the tournament Monday, crushing Bob Hewitt of Australia, 7-5, 6-2, 11-9 in the quarter-finals.

Ralston's service — a nightmare at times last week — was in good shape at last. He hit five aces and 38 service winners, and at the same time collared Hewitt's service and scored points with a stream of effective returns.

In last year's tournament, Ralston was eliminated by Emerson in the semifinals.

The last American to win the Wimbledon title was Chuck McKinley in 1963. Otherwise, the Australians have an unbroken run of success since 1960.

Arkansan Is Top All Star Vote Getter

By JACK NHAUD

Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Third baseman Brooks Robinson of the Baltimore Orioles, the top vote getter with 257, and shortstop Dick McAuliffe of the Detroit Tigers were the only repeaters on the two starting infields named for the July 12 All-Star baseball game at St. Louis.

Robinson and McAuliffe were joined by rookie first baseman George Scott of the Boston Red Sox and second baseman Bobby Knoop of the California Angels on the American League infield.

Robinson got all but two votes of those eligible to pick him. The Orioles could not vote for their teammates.

Willie McCovey, first baseman of the San Francisco Giants, led the National League voting with 214. Joe Morgan, Houston second baseman and Ron Santo, Chicago Cubs' third baseman, both were picked to the team although they were injured over the weekend. Leo Cardenas, Cincinnati shortstop, was the fourth member of the National League infield.

Morgan suffered a broken right knee cap in batting practice before Saturday's game and will be out of action for at least two weeks. Santo received a fractured cheek bone when hit by a pitched ball in Sunday's game with the New York Mets and underwent surgery Monday.

Presumably, substitution will be made if they are unable to play. It will be up to Manager Walter Alston to ask Sam Mele of Minnesota is the American League manager.

The two starting infields were announced by Commissioner William D. Eckert's office in a change from the usual procedure. Normally, the entire starting line-up, except for the pitchers, is released at the same time.

Eckert's office will release the names of the starting outfielders Thursday and catchers Sunday. The pitching staffs and the rest of the 25-man squads will be named later.

The National League finally summer by winning the game at took the lead in the series last Minnesota for an 18-17 edge. The Nationals have won three in a row and seven of the last eight decisions.

Starters were selected by the vote of players, managers and coaches in each league. Nobody was permitted to vote for a

Travelers in Shutout Over Austin

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP)—Arkansas combined Larry Stubing's home run with Hal Gilson's four-hit pitching Monday night and defeated Austin 1-0 in a Texas League baseball game.

Stubing's blast, his 12th homer of the year, came in the fourth inning. It was a 350-foot drive into right field.

The game was the shortest of the year here, lasting only one hour, 39 minutes.

Gilson needed only 99 pitches to polish off the Braves. Only two Austin baserunners reached second.

In other Texas League games El Paso beat Albuquerque 7-2 and Amarillo stopped Dallas-Fort Worth 6-2.

El Paso tallied three runs in the second and sixth innings in waltzing past the Dodgers.

Levi Brown and Ron Davis had homers, Leo Posada a double and triple and Danny Kern and Brown triples as Amarillo ripped the Spurs.

Doug Jones in Another Comeback Try

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF

HOUSTON (AP)—Embattled Doug Jones makes his second attempt at a championship tonight when he pits his speed and strong punching against the finesse and feared left jab of Ernie Terrell, who holds the World's Boxing Association heavyweight title.

Jones tried for the lightweight crown in 1962 and lost to Harold Johnson in 15 rounds.

Since then, he has fought the best heavyweights he could find, including Cassius Clay, the generally recognized champion, who was just coming up then. Clay outpointed him, but many claimed the decision went the wrong way.

So now, Jones goes against the fellow who thinks he should be the recognized champion since he represents the only world's association but realizes that Clay, although suspended while he was WBA champion, still is regarded as the big man of the game.

Each predicts victory, and Jones bravely forecasts that he will knock out the taller and stronger Terrell, whose superior height and reach have made him a 6 to 5 favorite.

Terrell only says he will "beat him bad, maybe knock him out."

The two come together in a match scheduled for 15 rounds at 11 p.m. EDT. A crowd approaching 10,000 and paying $130,000 is expected to be in Sam Houston Coliseum.

Whoever wins, he has the offers of future fights.

Irving Ungerman, manager of George Chuvalo, who was beaten by Terrell in November, made a bid of $75,000 to the winner of the Terrell-Jones fight.

Hugh Benbow, manager of Cleveland Williams, the only fighter to knock out Terrell — in 1962 — made an offer of $50,000. Benbow plans to put the fight on in Houston's famed Astrodome if he gets it.

Terrell will enter the ring at 210 pounds and boasting a five-inch height advantage over the 6-1, 190-pound Jones. Terrell also has an advantage of five inches in reach.

player on his own team. Due to the varying numbers of players on the rosters when the player 294 ballots in the National and representatives conducted their balloting last week, there were 287 in the American.

The closest contest was between Knoop and Bobby Richardson for second base in the American League. Robinson won in a landslide and both Scott and McAuliffe had comfortable margins.

Santo beat Jim Ray Hart of San Francisco 151-125 in the third base competition in the National League, the closest contest. McCovey won a lopsided winner over Bill White of Philadelphia. Cardenas had a solid edge on Maury Wills of Los Angeles and Morgan beat out Jim Lefebvre of the Dodgers.

HR No. 522 for Mays in Giant Win

By DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer
When Willie Mays hits a ball out of sight he figures he'll catch up with it the next day in a newspaper.

It takes something really extraordinary like a pop fly — to stir Willie these days.

Mays blasted into third place on the all-time home run list Monday night with the 522nd homer of his 5-year career, a two-run shot that gave San Francisco a 2-1 victory over St. Louis.

His first-inning homer off St. Louis ace Bob Gibson sent Willie one ahead of Ted Williams' lifetime mark and left the hard slugger only 12 short of Jimmy Foxx, the No. 2 man on the list behind Babe Ruth's 714 peak.

Mays, however, took the homer in stride, just as he has done each time he's connected since cracking Mel Ott's National League record with No. 512 earlier this season. Willie, it appears, has grown record-weary.

"The only records I know about is what I read in the papers," he said after belting No. 521 last Thursday at Chicago to match Williams' mark. "But I'll admit you do think of them a little after you read about it."

He shrugged off Monday's big homer — "I wasn't trying to get past anybody. I was just trying to hit the ball off Gibson" — and turned to what he called "the deciding play of the game" — his catch of a pop fly that helped kill a Cardinal rally in the eighth inning.

Lou Brock led off the eighth with a triple over Mays' head and Bob Tolan then hit a fly ball into short center field. Mays raced in and gloved the ball one-handed before colliding with shortstop Jim Davenport. The ball was knocked loose, but the umpires ruled Willie had held it long enough for the putout.

Dick Ellsworth, the victim of Mays' 521st homer, bounced back with a route-going victory as the Cubs whipped Atlanta 5-1. Roberto Clemente stroked three key hits in Pittsburgh's 8-5 decision over Houston and Cincinnati defeated Los Angeles 3-1 in other National League activity.

Baltimore trimmed California 4-1 and Minnesota beat Cleveland 6-2 in the only American League games scheduled.

Mays came up in the first inning with one out and Jesus Alou, who had singled, aboard. He hit a fast ball over 40 feet into the upper left-field seats for his 17th homer of the year.

"I usually don't hit Gibson too good," Mays said, "but I knew this one was gone when I hit it."

Ellsworth scattered eight hits, secured one run and singled in another while picking up only his third victory in 13 decisions. The Cubs, who had dropped seven of his previous eight games, broke it open with three runs in the fifth against loser Joey Jay.

Clemente, raising his league-leading batting mark to .332, set up a run with a fourth-inning single, snapped a 2-2 tie with a run-scoring double in the fifth and singled again in a five-run seventh-inning burst that wrapped it up for the Pirates and right-handed Steve Blass.

The Reds scored twice in the first inning, Pete Rose doubling one run in and scoring the other on Vada Pinson's single. They added an insurance run in the second on John Edward's homer.

Milt Pappas checked the Dodgers on a run and eight hits before hurting his right foot on a play at first base in the eighth and giving way to reliever Billy McCool.

Three Games at City Park This Week

There will be three nights of baseball at Hope City Park this week beginning Tuesday when the Pony League Bears take on McNeil at 8 o'clock.

Wednesday night the Hope All-Stars play the Bears of the Big League and the Bears of the Pony League play Magnolia, the first game starting at 6:30.

Thursday night at 8 o'clock the Big League Bears tangle with Magnolia, it was announced by Nathaniel Holyfield and Floyd Rogers, managers.

Santo Rests Well After Surgery

CHICAGO (AP) — Third baseman Ron Santo was resting comfortably following surgery of his fractured cheek today and it remained only a matter of time before he will be back in the Chicago Cubs' line-up.

Santo's string of 390 consecutive games for the Cubs ended in the first game of a double-header against the New York Mets when he was hit by a pitch by Jack Fisher.

The peppery Cub captain, however, had singled in the first inning of the game to keep alive his streak of hitting in 25 successive games which left him two short of the Cub record of 27 set by Hack Wilson in 1929.

Santo said from his hospital bed that Fisher did not throw at him intentionally despite the fact the two clubs had engaged in throwing beanballs before Santo was hit.

Santo predicted he'd be out of the hospital in a week and back in uniform in 10 days.

Meanwhile, the Cubs brought up infielder Ron Campbell from Tacoma of the Pacific Coast League to fill in for Santo and made room for Campbell by shipping utility infielder Joe Amalfitano to Tacoma.

Supply of Silver Still Shrinking

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — Despite these sandwich-type small coins the U.S. mints are turning out, the Treasury's supply of silver continues to shrink.
American industry is using ever more of the metal for everything from old-fashioned silverware to new fangled rockets, and world usage is running 100 million ounces a year above global production.
The U.S. Treasury still has enough silver tucked away to take care of its dwindling coinage needs and to keep American industry supplied for at least a year and maybe for two. But before that deadline, world pressure on the official U.S. price, still held at $1.2930 an ounce by the U.S. Treasury, will mount.
At the moment the Treasury has 604 million ounces. Back in 1958 it had 2.1 billion ounces. The fast dwindling hoard was the reason the United States turned to the sandwich type dimes and quarters and cut the half dollar's silver content in two.
In the metals trade there is talk of industry needing about 200 million ounces from the Treasury this year and of coinage taking about as much more. But the mint puts its coinage needs this year as nearer 60 million ounces, compared with 320 million ounces it used in 1965.
The squeeze comes from this: The Treasury now has 465 million ounces legally earmarked as backing for silver-certificate money. This leaves 229 million ounces that it could sell to American industry.
World production is now around 300 million ounces a year. This includes newly mined silver and metal from melting coins and reclaiming silver from old photographic supplies and spark plugs. World usage is now rising above 400 million ounces a year — and the squeeze isn't far away.
American industry's needs are many and growing. Silverware makers are using more now. Commercial and popular photography takes large amounts of the metal. Silver brazing alloys are increasingly used. Modern industrial techniques call for a silver soldered joint that has great strength at high temperatures. Jet aircraft and rockets have taken a lot of this. Autos, air conditioners and refrigerators also use it.
The price of the metal would have risen long since, except for the U.S. Treasury's official policy of holding it at $1.2930 an ounce by offering its hoard to American industry. If the price ever rose to $1.38 an ounce it would become profitable to melt down the old style silver coins for their metal content. Such coins now in circulation contain about 1.5 billion ounces.
By turning to the sandwich type small coin, the U.S. Treasury has been able to stretch its reserves. Its stocks fell 370 million ounces in 1964 and another 400 million ounces in 1965. This year the switch to silverless small coins is cutting that loss to about 160 million ounces, by the Treasury's count, or to about 200 million by some industry sources' figuring.
What to do as the squeeze tightens? Some say that perhaps the 465 million ounces earmarked as backing for paper money will have to be freed. Others think that world prices for the metal will have to rise — and that might lure out untold millions of ounces hoarded in Asia and other silver-loving regions.

THE FAMILY LAWYER

Louder Than Words

Suppose you walk into a coffee shop, point to the doughnut tray, and hold up two fingers. And suppose, after being served, you decide that you aren't hungry after all—and refuse the doughnuts. Could the proprietor make you pay anyhow?
Theoretically, he could indeed. Even though you haven't uttered a word, you have entered into a binding legal contract.
As a rule, contracts are created by oral or written language. But the law recognizes that actions may speak louder than words. If the situation is right, just a nod of the head may mean anything from "I do" to "I bid $100 for that oriental rug."

You can not only enter into a contract but even commit an assault, merely by gesture. The law will weigh the surrounding circumstances to decide how much menace the gesture conveyed.
For example:
It was held not an assault for a man to shake an angry finger at his hostess, since she was safely seated eight feet away. And it was held not an assault for a motorist to make a leering grimace at a pretty girl, walking at a considerable distance from his car.
But it was held an assault for a landlord to brandish a stick ominously over the head of his tenant. And it was held an assault for a man, known to be trigger-happy, to reach suddenly for his hip pocket.
Can defamation of character, too, be committed by acts instead of by words? It is possible, wrote Jonathan Swift, to "Convey a libel in a frown, And wink a reputation down."
In one case, a man charged that his character had been besmirched—wordlessly—by two clumsy detectives. It seems they had followed him constantly for several days and nights, making no effort to hide what they were doing.
The detectives denied that this amounted to defamation. But the court agreed with the plaintiff, because the detectives had shadowed him so openly. The judge said their actions, proclaiming to one and all that this man needed watching, spoke more insultingly than words.

Vitamin A Can Be Harmful Despite Great Tolerance

BY WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT, M.D.
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Q—I give my children 25,000 units of vitamin A daily. Now I'm told that too much of this vitamin can be harmful. In what way is it bad? Am I giving my children too much?
A—Since the daily requirement of vitamin A is 2,500 to 5,000 units, the amount you are giving your children is excessive. Fortunately, there is a wide range of tolerance for this vitamin. One child who developed chronic vitamin A poisoning took 50,000 units daily for seven months. Another developed acute poisoning after a single dose of 350,000 units.
The poisoning is manifested by loss of appetite, itching, falling out of the hair, hemorrhages under the skin and pains in the bones and joints. The sensible way to give your children vitamin A is in the form of such foods as milk, fortified margarine, eggs and liver.
Q—Is an appetite-building vitamin available?
A—People have an exaggerated idea of what vitamins will do for them. Thiamine (vitamin B-1) will restore the appetite only if the poor appetite is due to a lack of this vitamin in the diet. None of the other vitamins has a specific effect on the appetite.
Thiamine is found in fish, fowl, lean meat, milk, whole grain cereals and enriched bread. Cyproheptadine (not a vitamin) is sometimes prescribed to stimulate the appetite but this should not be done until the cause of the poor appetite has been determined.
Q—Are any vitamins lost when foods are cooked or processed?
A—Leafy vegetables lose vitamin C by exposure to air in prolonged storage. This loss can be minimized by refrigeration. Vitamins B and C are lost by cooking. This is in part a result of exposure to air and in part the result of discarding the cooking water or pot liquor. This loss can be minimized by putting the vegetables to be cooked in a small amount of water that is already boiling and by avoiding prolonged cooking. If soda is added to the cooking water the loss of vitamins is greatly increased.
When foods are dehydrated they lose practically all their vitamin C but in commercial canning or freezing of fruits, vegetables and fruit juices as now practiced there is no loss of vitamin B and C.
Q—Can a person get too much vitamin C by eating lots of oranges?
A—No. Vitamin C is not stored in the body. Amounts in excess of your daily needs are quickly eliminated. Large amounts of citrus fruit, however, upset the digestive organs in some persons.

Jr. Shooters Impressive

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP)—Five junior skeet shooters from Arkansas swept first place Sunday in the 12 and 20 gauge team competition at the Mid-American Skeet Shoot here.
Team members were Larry Galtz and Bill Brewer of Paragould, Gus Blass III and Leinheimer of Little Rock and Lloyd Wolford of Weiner.

How can we sell a 10¢ cigar for 6¢?

It's no secret. We make more cigars of one brand than anyone and spend only a fraction for advertising. Still, sometimes we wish we could spend more advertising this fine cigar value. But, we'd have to raise our price or cut our quality. Then, we might not sell as many. What do you think?

The mountain climber's reason for climbing a mountain because it is there is a noteworthy example of the adventurous spirit. But the bridge player's desire to rebid a five card suit because it is there, certainly is not an example of good bridge.

The fact that a good five-card suit is described as rebiddable means that it may be rebid if there is a reason to rebid and no better bid can be found.

South has no reason to rebid in response to his partner's one no-trump. With 14 high card points he has no reason to try to get to game and his hand is likely to play just as well in no-trump as in spades.

However, this South did rebid to two spades. West opened the queen of trumps and South managed to make his contract without any trouble. The game was duplicate and South was very pleased with his score of plus 110. There is a 50-point bonus for making a part score in a duplicate game.

He was pleased only until he looked at the results and found that his score of plus 110 was tied for bottom with a couple of other players who had made the same rebid.

At all other tables North was allowed to play one no-trump. The play for two no-trump was just as easy as the play for two spades. In fact a couple of no-trump declarers managed to make three.

The three of clubs was opened against them and the nine-spot returned. In each instance East held back his king and never managed to make a trick with it.

THE HIGH COST OF HIGHWAY ACCIDENTS

THE COST IN MONEY—Highway accidents are an expensive proposition in terms of both cash and lives in the United States. Newsmap above shows how total financial liability resulting from motor vehicle accidents during 1965 works out in terms of the cost for each registered vehicle in each of the states. Statistics were compiled by State Farm Mutual Automobile Insurance Co. in co-operation with National Safety Council.

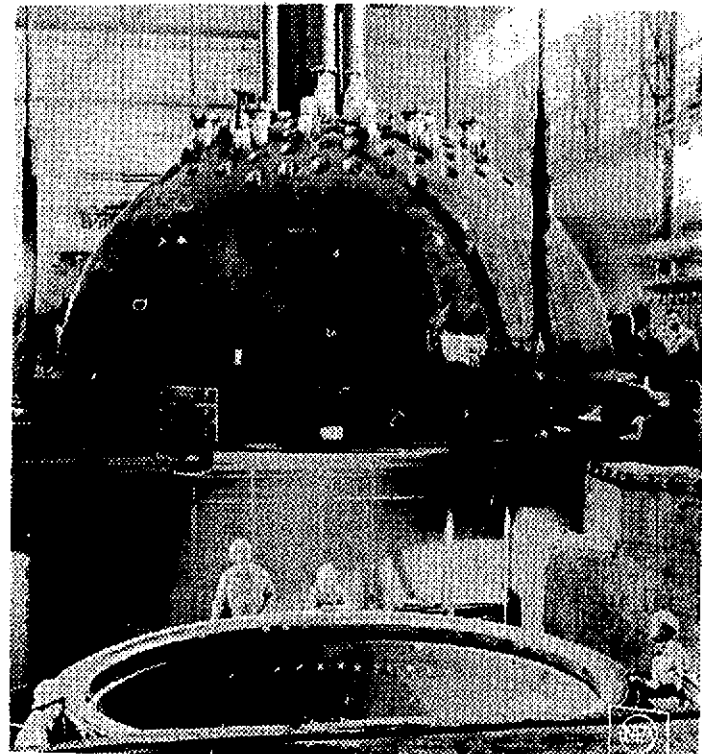

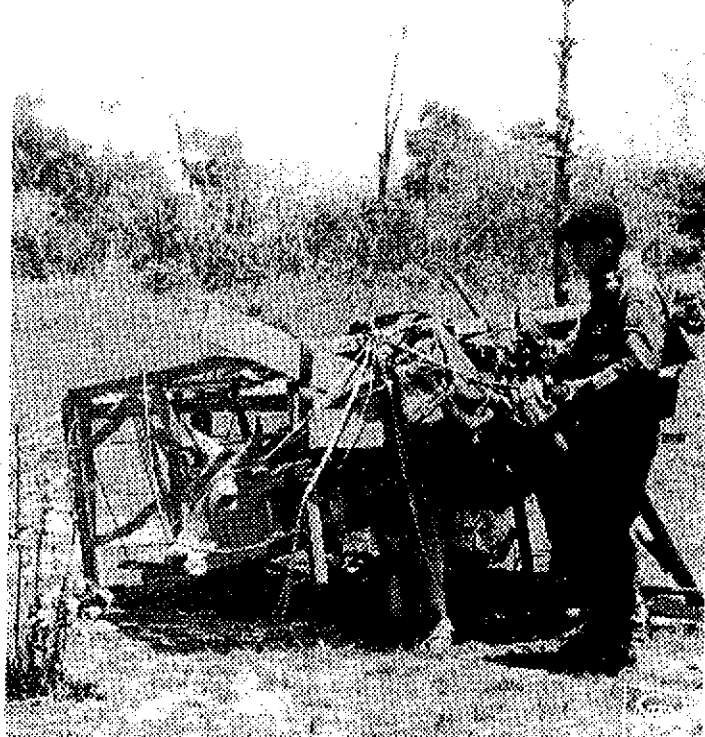

THE COST IN LIVES—Only three states—Alaska, Hawaii and Rhode Island—finished 1965 with less than 100 motor-vehicle accident deaths. The National Safety Council registered a total of 47,204 for the year for the 50 states and the District of Columbia. California, with far and away the most registered vehicles, was also far ahead in deaths. Alaska was lowest in both counts.

PURSE-SIZED RADAR, ALMOST—Scarcely larger than a woman's handbag, this compact new portable radar is probably lighter than most. It weighs in at 32 ounces, no problem for model Marilyn Thomas to heft with one hand. Considered the smallest in the world, it was developed by Radio Corporation of America engineers for battlefield use but can be adapted to civilian purposes, including auto and plane tracking.

COW LIFT—Airdrops by transports to supply outpost units have been battlefield business as usual since World War II. But there was something unusual about the mission of the C-123 at left. Cargo included a cow, right, that reached the ground at the U.S. Army Special Forces Camp at Phu Tuc, South Viet Nam, apparently none the worse for the experience despite a slightly battered crate. Live animals are being airlifted regularly to isolated positions to be kept for food when needed.

EASY DOES IT—Nuclear technology is no monopoly of the large nations. This picture, released by official Communist sources, shows the pressure vessel of a nuclear reactor being assembled in Czechoslovakia.

VICTORY CLAIM—Conservative candidate Joaquin Balaquer, left, made an early claim to victory over leftist-supported Juan Bosch, pictured voting at right, in the Dominican presidential election. Bosch led in early returns from Santo Domingo, but Balaquer claimed the vote outside the capital reported running heavily in his favor gave him the edge.

NAME HIS GAME—He looks like the three hear-no-say-no-see-no-evil monkeys rolled into one. But it's only auto race driver Jackie Stewart of Scotland, whose equipment is to protect him from glare, fumes and noise.

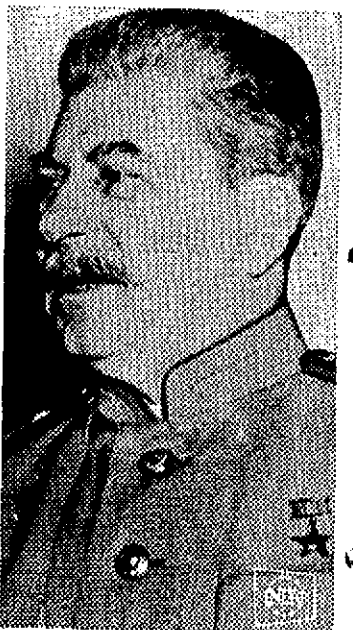

FIRST TOSS DID IT—Randy Matson of Texas A&M set a new shot-put record of 65 feet, 6 1/4 inches on his first toss in qualifications for the NCAA track and field championships at Indiana University, Bloomington. (NEA Telephoto)

Hitler vs. Stalin

On June 22, 1941, Adolf Hitler tore up the two-year-old Russo-German nonaggression treaty and three million Germans, Finns, Hungarians, Romanians and Italians suddenly smashed into Russia on a front as long as the entire U.S.-Canadian border. The timetable for Hitler's war "to save Europe from Bolshevism" called for a knockout of the Red army in three months, giving Germany a clear road to the oil of the Near East, plus the agricultural resources of the Ukraine. The timetable bogged down 60 miles short of Moscow. Germany was better armed and better prepared in the beginning, but winter, distance, the will of the Russians to resist—and massive doses of aid from the United States when it entered the war six months later—turned the invasion into Hitler's greatest mistake of World War II. The cost of victory to Russia was staggering—20 million dead—but it brought Soviet power to the gates of Western Europe, enabling it to swallow half of Germany and a string of satellites from the Baltic Sea to the Balkans.

The war brought destruction on an unprecedented scale—by invading Germans, retreating Russians, then by advancing Russians and retreating Germans. Smolensk, Kiev, Kharkov, Leningrad, Sevastopol, Stalingrad—Russia's greatest cities were laid waste.

Mobilization of Russia's human resources was total. Women served as nurses in the front lines and as partisans behind the lines. Guerrilla warfare, scorched earth tactics and fierce, incessant counterattacks slowed the German drive and bled its strength.

WHERE THE (WINTER) ACTION IS—Something left over from an out-of-season travel poster? No, it's what's happening now down under in Australia where the winter sports season is in full swing. Riding high in the chair lift are two University of Michigan students, Fred Parr and George Knox, who took advantage of the seasonal turnabout south of the equator to visit Thredbo Village resort in the Snowy Mountains near the Australian capital of Canberra.

The brutality of man toward man also reached unprecedented levels, unmatched until the horror of the Nazi death camps was later revealed. German atrocities against the civilian population rallied the people around Stalin to liberate Mother Russia from the invader.

Weather and vast distances proved the undoing of the Wehrmacht's vaunted mechanized power. The Red Army's first great winter offensive in January 1942 foretold the doom of the Nazis. The Battle of Stalingrad in 1942-43, where 330,000 Germans surrendered, sealed it.
